OL. III. NO. 43.

CHICAGO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1897.

PRICE, 5 CTS

RACING GOSSIP.

There isn't much question about the racing situation in and about Chicago. Factional fights, folly and foolish legal legislation not only of 1896 but before has nearly killed racing. The same amalgamated idiosyncrasy maimed the general breeding interest of Illinois—a noble one. At present there is no law which makes racing with its concomitant—betting—legitimate in Illinois. The Illinois legislature, now in session, is dabbling at racing, via the news, which reflects legislative humanity. In the past, racing bills have meant "buddle" to which legislative creation is keenly amenable. There is necessity for a racing law—and no buddle—nowadays. There are seven race tracks in or near Chicago. Three are in the city, Washington Park, Hawthorne and Harlem. They represent some $4,000,000 in investment. Three are on the Indiana edge of Chicago. They have a legislative right. One other in Wisconsin is also in line with the law and is not likely to be put outside that line. The racing season is nearly 200 days long. The racing folks if given the legal badge they deserve will be likely to agree on dates which will permit each track to supply Chicago folks with the racing they want.

The closure against racing has cost Chicago merchants many millions of dollars. The legislative wisdom or judgment is not likely to make this charge larger. Then, too, there are some 150 tracks, mostly those for the harness brigade, within the state. They have suffered as heavily as Chicago. So have the Illinois breeders of horses.

Secretary Jas. Howard in a recent letter as to the attitude of the Washington Park Club says: "Our attitude toward legislation at Springfield is simply this: We think it is the duty of the legislature to enact a good racing law, and therefore we do not feel that we are called upon to make a crusade for such a measure. If the lawmakers desire our opinions on the subject we will readily give our views to them if called upon. When we abandoned racing we did so because we felt we could no longer afford to be made a target of by those whose only interest in the sport was mercenary, and whose vicious tendencies prompted them to attack us and thereby destroy racing altogether in this state. This could not have been done but for defective laws upon the subject, and until the amusement is legalized we shall not consider resuming racing."

"Further, I will say that, while we shall not take any aggressive stand in support of any measure, we will oppose any attempt to make a bad turf law. Our present interest is this much, that rather than see a vicious racing law go on the statute books, we will take up the cudgel against it. And I think we could win that kind of a fight."

"Thus we are awaiting with comparative indifference any action on this line that may be taken by the Illinois assembly. The majority of the members of the club are fond of a good horse race and would be glad to see a short, high class meeting each year, but their enthusiasm for the sport is not sufficient to induce them to engage in the pastime without it is fully sanctioned by the law. The fact that the membership is composed of the representative men of Chicago is sufficient guaranty of and explanation for this fact, as well as that the recreation, when properly conducted, has the endorsement of an intelligent public opinion."

Clem Creveling writing from Memphis under date of last Tuesday says: "Mr. Charles S. Cough's horses arrived safely. They have wintered well. The band will be hard to beat in its class. The Cough horses are in the hands of a capable trainer and I secured him the very best stablemen and exercise boys. Every one employed is first-class in his line.

"Memphis is an ideal track for early training. At it, horses get every accommodation. The stables and kitchens are good, the water fine and the grounds in excellent condition. The track is grateful and perfect. The force in charge will not let it get soft and deep as it was last spring and it cannot get too hard.

"The horses all look well, especially Algol, Typhoon II, Ornament and Meadowthorpe. It is hard to tell which one of the group of good three-year-olds looks the best. None of the horses here have had any but slow work, but they are in condition now and the weather being just right they will commence this week to go along.

The trouble with Dorian has at last been discovered. After the horse came to St. Louis Dr. Crowley gave him a careful examination and found that the horse had dropsy of the kidneys. Under Dr. Crowley's skillful treatment Dorian has entirely recovered. He feels well and is getting into fine condition. I think that from the way Dorian is now working he will be the best horse in the Fosters' string of 1897."
